Repo

Howard Lin, Randy Chen, Cody Abe

April 26, 2017

Q: This project has a strange repository structure. Why is that?
A: We are a team of fairly green developers of the web. Trying to organize a system of contributions was initially difficult, so early commits and version control was not the most clean.

Q: Why is there such a discrepancy between contributors?
A: Eventually, we reached a point where pair-programming or triple-programming became much more efficient, as that way we were able to communicate with each other directly as we coded. That is why it may appear one person contributed a lot more than others.